PASSAMAQUODDY TRIBE
HIGH STAKES BINGO

HOW IT WOULD LOOK

Representatives of the Passamaquoddy Indian Tribe have been meeting recently with local officials to describe in more detail the tribe's proposal for a high-stakes bingo hall on land owned by the tribe in Albany Township. They were scheduled to meet yesterday for a second time with the Oxford County Commissioners. Last week a meeting was held with Bethel emergency responders to discuss fire and ambulance options for the facility. No commitments were made, according to Town Manager Madeleine Henley. The bingo hall shown here would occupy 43,000 square feet and accommodate up to 2,000 players at a time. It would operate Saturdays and Sundays for 40 weekends a year. Before such a facility could be built, however, the Maine Land Use Regulatory Commission must approve a change in zoning for the area. A spokesman said last week that tribal officials hope to have the application ready to submit by the first week in April. Both LURC and the tribe are expected to schedule further public hearings on the proposal.

Upton OKs sale of land to wildlife refuge

By ALISON ALOISIO

Upton voters Thursday approved their municipal budget without changes -- but not without discussion.

The amount to be raised from taxes (including money for educating the town's children) is $90,998 -- $3,315 less than last year's, according to selectman Richard LeComte. LeComte said he expected the mill rate to go down about a dollar per $1,000 of assessed valuation. Among the items approved by the two dozen voters was the sale of 200 acres of town land to the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service.

The land will become part of the Lake Umbagog National Wildlife Refuge. The town, in turn, will be paid $150 an acre for the property. The money will go into the School and Ministerial Trust Fund, interest from which is applied to the school budget each year.

Most of the questions at the annual Town Meeting regarding the land sale came from resident Bob Anderson. Anderson said he was not against the sale itself, but was worried about possible regulations that might come with it.

He asked USFWS representative Will Waldron if the land would remain open to the same activities as Upton had allowed, such as hunting.

Traditional uses will continue in the future on the land," said Waldron. "The highest, best use of the land is recreational."

He did not elaborate beyond that, and Anderson was still skeptical. He said USFWS had put restrictive regulations in place since setting up

Road improvements on the table in Gilead

By ALISON ALOISIO

Gilead voters will decide Saturday whether to raise $12,000 in taxes and borrow another $35,000 to pave town roads. But even if the funds are approved, the town's tax rate is expected to stay the same.

Beverly Corriveau, the town's administrative assistant, said she expected the paving issue to draw the most attention of the 44 articles to be discussed at the annual Town Meeting. The meeting is scheduled for 7 p.m. at the Town Hall.

The $35,000 would be borrowed over a three-year period, with $4,200 to be paid in interest.

The work is scheduled for this year on a little under two miles of the town's nine miles of roads, Corriveau said. Sections of most of the roads will be shimmed where needed.

Voters will also decide whether to authorize the School Committee to oversee the Gilead Scholarship Fund, set up last year with $28,000 of state education reimbursement money.

It is proposed to annually give a $500 scholarship to each Gilead student graduating from high school who attends an accredited post-secondary school.

Townpeople will likely see a drop in local funding for the transfer station account, as $4,000 in reimbursement money from the closing of the town landfill is proposed to be applied to the account.

Other regular accounts are not expected to vary much from previous years, Corriveau said.

Time running out on W's stock term limits?

By MICHAEL DANIELS

Woodstock voters will decide Monday if it's time to terminate term limits, and to reevaluate land and buildings in town.

Members of the town's Planning Board are currently limited to a single five-year term. The limit was imposed in the 1987 ordinance establishing the board.

The limits on Planning Board terms are the only such limits on the books in Woodstock, and at least two attempts have been made to eliminate them.

At Town Meeting in 1993, and again in 1994, articles were introduced calling for the limits to be dropped.

Term-limit opponents argued that the limits caused the board to lose valuable experience, and that they forced the town manager to spend too much time bringing new members up to speed.

But term-limit supporters countered that the limits had not been in effect long enough to tell whether they caused any problems. And Lloyd Poland noted that there did not seem to be any lack of people willing to serve as new members.

The term limits narrowly survived both votes (21-24 in 1993, 31-35 in 1994).

This year, however, with two unfilled seats on the board, and the terms of the five remaining members all due to expire within two years, Town Manager Vern Maxfield, said he hopes things will be different.

"I'd like to see this changed," he said, "because if it's not the town is going to lose a lot of valuable expe-

Local skier-development programs have youngsters here off to a fast start

The Bethel area has always produced its share of good skiers, but now a whole generation of home-grown young alpine racers are taking that tradition to a new level -- including the Junior Olympics and the National Alpine Championships.

The era began several years ago with Newry's Parker Gray, who made the Junior Olympics the second year he raced, at age 14.

"We moved here 11 years ago for Don's job," said Sylvia Gray, Parker's mother. Her husband, Don, is a game warden. "We didn't know much about skiing," she said.

But Parker decided to give the sport a try, and the rest may be on its way to becoming skiing history. This week, he's at Sugarloaf competing in the National Alpine Championship, in the company of racers like Tommy Moe and A.J.

• But success still takes lots of hard work and family support

Kitt. "He wants to go to the Olympics," said Sylvia.

Parker is currently a senior at Gould Academy, and a product of the Gould/Sunday River racing program.

The story starts out similarly for 14-year-old Patrick Donovan of Bethel.

"We're skiers, but not racers," said his mother, Pat. "He joined the middle school team at Telstar. (Sunday River coach) Cindy Brown encouraged him to try the racing program."

That was two years ago. This past weekend, Patrick raced in Eastern Junior Olympics competition at Sunday River -- and put on the best performance yet in his age group by a skier from the racing program.

He finished 16th and 18th, respectively, in Super G and giant slalom races. More than 100 racers from all over the Northeast competed.

Patrick's fellow eighth-grader, Stephanie Vaughan, also raced in the Junior Olympics.

She began racing as a fourth-grader. Like the others, she started doing it for fun, not glory.

"Skiing was something to do on the weekend," said Stephanie's mother, Marion.

It still is -- but now it's something to do very well on the weekends.

Moving down the age groups, there's sixth-grader Billy Murphy of Bethel and fifth-grader Jake Largess of Newry.

Billy qualified for the U.S. Ski Team's Future Stars training camp -- making him one of the top 16 racers in Maine in his age group. Jake, meanwhile, finished second in the Thomson Trophy race (for

STILL TIME TO INTERVENE

To the Editor:

I appreciate your article concerning the gas pipeline. People should be aware though that they can still intervene with FERC. I called the Washington office and was told that they do want to hear from the people as the final decision has not been made as of yet. Please, it is time to stand up and speak up.

I find it hard to believe that there are only so few with concerns about this pipeline. Yes, overall the construction and the overall performance of gas pipelines is quite safe. It is usually outside forces which cause accidents, but being expected to live so close to the pipeline we have to figure those outside forces into the equation. Once blown into oblivion it will not matter to my family or myself whether the cause was a faulty line or if it was somebody hitting it with an excavator or a roadside washout during spring thaw. Sorry, to me that just doesn't ease my fears or concerns. And more or less being told that I'm just a hysterical female with a phobia about this just makes me want to fight even more. I'm not an engineer or land agent but I still have the right to my opinion. This is America, isn't it? Where everyone has the right to pursue happiness -- well, this does not make me happy at all.

Now, safety aside, what about our property? PNGTS says it will not change our property value. Yet according to realtors it will make it hard to sell our homes if we so choose. So what is the equity in a property that can't be sold? Sounds like zero to me. Any prospective buyer has to be informed about the pipeline. So if prospective future residents have the right to choose shouldn't we, too, have that right? What's the worst that can happen? They will resort to eminent domain, which means they have to take every stubborn property owner to court.

I will do everything in my power to protect the safety and future of my family. PNGTS is counting on people to give up and want us to think that there is nothing we can do. Remember there is strength in numbers. To my knowledge there are only a few of us right now willing to stand up for our rights and willing to speak up. This is perfect for them and making it harder for us. It's exactly how they want it. At least I will be able to say that I've done everything I could. So far for me that means calls to the DOT (which by the way has no record of the actual signed easements on file, neither does Town Hall), FERC, Whatcomb County, Wash., and Rep. Al Barth, who seems to be on PNGTS's side. Further, I wrote a letter to the DEP, Rep. John Baldacci and filed for intervenor status with FERC. What have you done? It will be interesting to hear what people have to say when construction starts next year, when the trees along the road disappear and the fun starts dealing with a one-lane road.

A DARE CHALLENGE

To the Editor:

To all concerned business owners, chamber of commerce members, and friends:

It has come to my attention, in the past few days, that a big controversy has come up over the fundraising event being done for the DARE program. I have spoken with the co-ordinator of our local program, and have been informed of the difficulty of raising the $2,500 needed to provide the base funding for each year of the program. Because of this lack of support, they have turned to a professional fundraiser to be able to carry out this very valuable community service. This seemed to be their last resort. This educational class on drug awareness is not tax funded, and can only exist with the support of the concerned friends and citizens of Bethel and surrounding towns.

I have a list of 195 business people from the Bethel area. Every year we are called upon to donate to all sorts of charity events and an ever-growing list of outside fundraisers. Twenty dollars, $50, and up are not uncommon requests for ads and outright donations. Well, it's about time to take a hard look at what our donations provide. We should also make the hard decisions to demand the best product for our money.

The failure of the DARE program in Bethel would be a disgrace to all, since to fund the base amount would only take an average $12.82/year from the list of people I have.

Why can't we make this small gesture to our community children? Why must everything we do have to have a monetary pay back? Let's get inspired into making this area more than just a vacation point for people to leave their money at. Let's work toward more common interests and goals, to make this a better home for our children by teaching them pride in themselves and painting a picture of a better future they can believe in.

This cannot be just a one-time commitment of funds, but must be an annual effort by all concerned. It could become that Christmas card you mail every year, the one that makes you feel a light in your heart because you know that you have helped.

If I can gather 100 $20 donations, I personally will make a $100 donation (not Kelly's Auto Parts, but myself). Come on, make my day, take my pay!

Please make all checks payable to Bethel DARE, P.O. 108, c/o Bethel Police Dept., Bethel, ME 04217.

COLUMNIST HAD IT RIGHT

To the Editor:

A letter by Christopher Dima stated that a column by Mike Brown used name calling which suggests "an irrational fear or a misunderstanding of the well organized environmental movement."

It is my opinion that all of Mike's descriptive terms were very accurate. Webster's says a gang is, "a group of people associated together in some way." The group at Mt. Blue a couple of years ago that spray painted skidders was no less a gang than the people banded together in a city who spray paint buildings with various symbols.

Another name was "environmental bandits." Bandit: "anyone who steals, cheats, exploits, etc."

Many landowners in this state purchase land to raise trees for profit. They pay for the land, they pay taxes on the land, and they pay wages to people who have college degrees in silviculture to be sure they get expert management of the growing forest.

When a group (or gang) of people get together and use half truths and scare tactics to deprive these landowners of their right to harvest their trees, how can it be called anything less than stealing their profits and cheating them out of their right of private ownership? It certainly fills the heading of "land grabber."

Perhaps the term "elite o nuts" could be recalled. I would substitute "eco-freaks." These are people who are freaking out about the entire ecosystem collapsing around us because we are cutting trees or driving cars or generating electricity.

Does Mr. Dima honestly believe that these paper companies, that have millions of dollars invested in their land and factories, will implement a cutting policy that will leave them without their source of raw material? These corporations haven't stayed in business around here for decades by being that shortsighted.

However, the "one cutting policy for all woodlands" is shortsighted. There are tree diseases that can only be controlled by cutting the diseased trees and a surrounding area of healthy trees to be sure it is stopped in order to protect the rest of the forest. It's like cutting out a tumor along with some healthy tissue to save the person.

The real problem is that nobody likes the looks of a clearcut, but some people are not willing to tolerate it for three to four years while it heals.

These people are attempting to legislate away a person's right to private ownership. Statements such as Mr. Dima's, "While the designation of huge parcels of land free from logging grows, there still exists a tremendous amount of acreage to feed the demand of the industry," prove my point. The statement treats private land as though it were public land saying you don't need all of your land to use, we'll just take some of it for our use and that still leaves you plenty for what you want. What arrogance.

I would ask Mr. Dima to explain to me and the other readers how the work force would be increased by cutting less wood on less land. In your explanation, Mr. Dima, please include the jobs lost since there would be no need for tree planters to replant clearcuts as there would be no clearcuts.

Lastly, on a broader scale, let me lessen the worries of some of the readers of this paper. There is no chance of the earth's oxygen being depleted by cutting trees throughout the world. Trees only account for less than 10 percent of the earth's oxygen generation. The other 90 percent-plus of oxygen is created by algae.

REMEMBERING EDWIN BROWN

To the Editor:

My first memory of Edwin Brown was as the quintessential printer at the Bethel Citizen. Every time I went to The Citizen office beginning in the late 1950s, I caught a glimpse of Edwin leaning over a press or checking some printing operation. Once in a while he would wait on me as I bought an office supply item. He usually had some humorous quip as we completed our transaction.

I had initially heard of Edwin as a small child. Probably in the late 1940s, he flew over our farm at East Bethel while my father was shingling. My mother always maintained that he passed between the house and barn over the connecting shed to "buzz" my father. I don't think he came as close as mother said he did, but it was always an image that captivated a curious child's imagination.

Edwin seemed freer when he was in the air and did not hesitate to "buzz" someone he knew as he flew around the countryside. Some of his sweeps over people were not always appreciated, but Edwin delighted in them.

When I came to work at the historical society, I got to know Edwin better and enjoyed talking with him. He had a very good memory for details and I profited immensely from learning all I could from his recollections. When I researched the history of the Bethel airport, he was a key source for helping me understand many of the details of that story since he had known most of the area's pioneers in early aviation.

One of the things that makes me increasingly uneasy is the rapidly diminishing number of people left who remember the local past extending back to the 1920s and 1930s. Edwin was one of my best sources and I will certainly miss his input on a variety of historical questions.

Edwin loved flying and spent his lifetime with planes and sharing air lore with other aviators in the area. It seemed every time I visited the Bethel airport Edwin was there exchanging stories with those who were as enthusiastic about aviation as he was. He kept a plane at the airport for many years and his interest in all things airborne never seemed to lag.

Now that his spirit has been set free forever, I imagine Edwin is somewhere soaring around with a look of joy on his face. I don't know who he will "buzz" this time, but I am certain his family and friends will feel his presence to the end of their days and beyond.

Base value for Newry property?

NEWRY--The base value for property in Newry should be $60,000 for a 1,000-square-foot dwelling, according to Maine Equalization Services, which is revaluing the town. Selectman Steve Wight said he did not believe the $60-per-square-foot value would bring strong opposition from property owners. He used what he said were contractors' parameters of $70 a square foot as a reasonable price for building a structure. In the past, selectmen have calculated a property's value by finding the square footage, looking at the building's component's, measuring the quality of construction and then consulting state tables.

Mason pleads guilty

PARIS--Alan Mason, 36, of Rumford pled guilty last week, under an agreement with the district attorney's office, to charges of Class A kidnapping and Class D assault. Mason and several others allegedly kidnapped and beat Michael Dunlay, also of Rumford, last August. The beating reportedly took place near Concord Pond in Woodstock. Justice Thomas Delehanty agreed to accept Mason's plea with the agreement he would serve three years in the state prison, with all but nine months suspended. Mason will report to prison April 5th. He was also fined $500, and given three-and-one-half-years probation. Pamela Mason, 47, pled guilty to charges of burglary and assault in connection with the kidnapping, and was sentenced to two years in the state prison with the time suspended, and two years probation. She also was fined $500.

Watch snowpack, ice jam conditions

AUGUSTA--Colder than normal temperatures anticipated over the next week will do little to reduce an above-normal snowpack in northern Maine, according to the Maine Emergency Management Agency. "River flows and reservoir storage levels are close to normal for this time of year," said Richard Fontaine, chairman of the Maine River Flow Advisory Committee. "However, we want to remind Maine citizens, local officials and emergency management agencies that these conditions can change rapidly. Rainfall is the single most important factor in determining the timing and magnitude of significant floods." Snowpack is an important secondary factor which can add to flooding problems, and ice jams can produce locally severe flooding. River flows are currently considered to be in the normal range statewide. Headwater storage reservoir levels were slightly above normal across the state. No major ice jams are reported on Maine rivers. But the ice cover is still in place over most rivers, and the potential still exists for jams to form with the start of spring runoff.

Land acquisition viewpoints sought

AUGUSTA--What types of public recreation and conservation lands should Maine acquire to serve current and future needs? Where should the state focus its public lands acquisition efforts? How should they be paid for? The state's Land Acquisition Priorities Advisory Committee invites the public to offer views on these and related questions. The committee began meeting last fall, and is seeking public comment on the goals and criteria that should guide future land acquisition efforts. Its draft recommendations for a land acquisition strategy are expected this fall. The committee will accept written comments, submitted to the State Planning Office until March 31. The address is 38 State House Station, Augusta, Maine 04330.

Body piercing to be regulated?

AUGUSTA--People who want to pierce their navels, tongues, noses and eyebrows should be able to get it done safely, say supporters of a legislation to regulate body piercing. "Body piercing has increased dramatically in the last few years," said Philip W. Haines, Deputy Director of the Bureau of Health. "The Department has concerns about the sanitary conditions under which this piercing takes place." Haines testified last week before the Legislature's Business and Economic Development Committee on the proposed bill. Under Rep. George Kerr's proposal, the Department of Human Services would establish sterilization, sanitation and safety standards for people who pierce. Piercing shops would have to be registered and inspected by local health officers, and minors could not be pierced without parental permission. Because piercing shops are not regulated, no one knows how many people in Maine perform the service. Haines said he supports a slightly different approach. He said because his department already licenses tattooists and inspects tattoo studios, "it makes more sense for the state to license and inspect body piercers than to require every municipality" to train inspectors. Having the state, rather than municipalities, inspect the shops would ensure uniform regulations, Haines said.

Banned trucks back in Maine

PORTLAND--A Quebec company that is barred from Maine highways for four months after being cited for safety violations is appealing the suspension of its privilege to operate in the state. An administrative hearing on Lariviere & Fils' appeal was scheduled for Thursday, but it was not clear whether an immediate decision would be issued. Meanwhile, trucks from the Canadian company that was cited are back on Maine roads, operating under a new company name, according to U.S. Customs officials. Lariviere & Fils was kicked off Maine highways for 120 days after being cited by state police for 30 violations, mostly for driving with too much weight. On Monday, the day the suspension took effect, customs officials told state police Lariviere trucks were back under a new name, G.D. Transport. Three G.D. Transport trucks were stopped for minor weight violations. The head of Maine's commercial vehicles division, Gary Hinkley, said Lariviere's owners formed a new company, which bought at least three of Lariviere & Fils' 18 trucks. The two companies have the same president and the same address, said Hinkley. "If it was a simple name change, we would not allow them to operate," said Hinkley. "But they formed a new company, and apparently they are operating the trucks under the new company. They have found a legal way, at least temporarily, to circumvent the suspension." The state attorney general's office is trying to determine whether the suspension can be legally applied against the newly formed company.

It's pigs vs. lobsters

BANGOR--The Maine lobster industry thinks the nation's pork producers are trying to hog the rights to the words "white meat." The National Pork Producers Council, whose slogan is "The Other White Meat," has gone to court over the Maine industry's description of lobster as "The Ultimate White Meat." The pork council asserts its trademark has been diluted and infringed. Maine lobster backers are steaming. "I have never heard of anyone mistaking a lobster for a pig based on our marketing efforts," Susan Barber, the executive director of the Maine Lobster Promotion Council, said Friday. The pork council said it had used the slogan since at least November 1986 and that it was registered by the U.S. Patent and Trademark Office in 1988. It accuses the lobster council of "trading on the good will and reputation of NPPC's well-known trademark, 'The Other White Meat.'" The Maine lobster council said it has described lobster as "The Ultimate White Meat" since July 1993. Dave Cousens, president of the Maine Lobstermen's Association, called the court challenge "pretty stupid." "Ultimate" and "the other" don't sound the same to me," he said. "I think they are upset because we came up with a better slogan."

unaware that anything had happened other than that they had come to a stop," Perkins said.

The crash dislodged the tractor-trailer's fuel tank and 30 or 35 gallons of diesel fuel were spilled, Perkins said.

Environmental officials said they did not expect any damage from the spill.

The accident occurred at Twitchell Crossing on Fore St. The crossing is marked, but does not have signals.

COUNTY REPUBLICANS

Republican State Senate leader Jane Amoro (R-Cape Elizabeth) was the featured speaker at the March meeting of the Oxford County Republican Committee, held at the Congregational Church in Mexico.

She reported that it was quite a year in Augusta with the battle for less government being waged by Republicans to allow individuals to keep more of their own money. The Democrats, according to Amoro, are looking for additional tax dollars for more new spending programs.

She said Republicans are trying to turn Maine from a state with one of the worst tax situations in the nation to one that will become more competitive with states that have already reduced their tax burden.

Maine's tax load, for example, is two and a half times that of neighboring New Hampshire. Amoro said Republicans appear to have a winner in the "Maine Can't Wait For Tax Relief" campaign along with making education their other top priority.

After dinner served by the ladies of the church, chairman Jolene Lovejoy of Rumford called the business meeting to order. State Committeewoman Becky Kendall of Bethel reported that the State Committee is undergoing considerable change with new committees being established, and increased communication between the State Committee and Republican legislators gaining increased emphasis.

The next meeting will be April 15 at the Second Congregational Church in Norway.

From the Bethel Police log:

Fiancee, fiance vanish

At 12:10 a.m. on March 16, while at the Sudbury Inn on another call, the officer was approached by a male subject who said his fiancee was supposed to meet him in front of the inn about 20 minutes earlier and had not arrived. He said they had both been in the bar and she had left five minutes before him while he paid his tab. The man said they had not been fighting and she had not had much to drink. The officer asked the subject to wait for him out front of the inn. The officer planned to speak with the subject after completing the other call. The officer also asked that if the subject located his fiancee he notify the Sheriff's Office. After finishing the first call the officer went to the front of the inn, but was unable to locate the subject or anyone matching his fiancee's description. No further calls were received.

Saturday, March 15

At 10:50 a.m. the Sheriff's Office reported that a vehicle traveling north on Route 26 from South Paris was being operated in an erratic manner. Police checked the Route 26 area with no contact.

Sunday, March 16

At 12:10 a.m. a vehicle was observed by police to be illegally parked in a towaway zone on Clark Street. The Sheriff's Office was asked to contact a tow truck. While the truck was hooking onto the vehicle, the owner arrived. He paid the tow truck driver and received a parking ticket. The vehicle was then released to him.

Skiers

10-year-olds and under) in New Hampshire recently. Forty-five racers from nine states competed. Jake's twin brother, Adam, was selected as an alternate in that competition.

Having fun, setting goals

What makes these young achievers perform like they do -- and are they sacrificing the rest of their lives to do it? "No, not really," said Jake Largess. "I just like it." Billy Murphy agrees. "I get to be with my friends when I ski with the middle school," he said. The others say the same thing. And Sunday River coach Cindy Brown can testify to that attitude -- she sees it all winter long. "They all love to ski," she said. "They're always at practice." Brown has been a coach here for eight years, and has seen the program -- and the kids -- move to a more and more competitive level.

"This is the first pack of kids who have seen what the older kids (like Parker Gray) do. It gives them something to aspire to," she said. That, she said, produces a snowball effect. "They're the latest layer of the snowball," said Brown. The young skiers vary in their aspirations. Some think year to year, while others think big time, long term. "I want to make the U.S. Ski Team," said Patrick. Stephanie set two goals for herself this year -- ski well in the middle school state championships, and make the Junior Olympics. She accomplished both, taking first and second places, respectively, in the middle school slalom and giant slalom races. Billy wanted to make the top 20 skiers in Maine in his age group. He's number 15. Then there's Jake, who last year set an open-ended goal of skiing as many consecutive days as he could. The result -- 140 straight days on the slopes. He didn't try to better that this year. But he and brother Adam did try an unusual form of cross-training. In February, they donned wet suits and went waterskiing in Massachusetts. Did it help their alpine form? "No," said Jake. "You lean back when you water ski. You lean forward when you snow ski."

Parental commitment needed

The young skiers in the Sunday River program put in roughly 16 hours a week on the snow. And skiing is an expensive sport. With that kind of commitment, can the parents enjoy it as much as the kids do? "The time is worth it," said Bonnie Largess, Jake and Adam's mother. "I've had so much fun going to the races. And I know where they are. It keeps them out of trouble." She's been following the races for several years -- the boys started at age 6. Pat Donovan serves as a gatekeeper for some of Patrick's races. While she and her husband, Neil, put money toward equipment, program, and race registration costs, they also require Patrick to do his share. "He works with Neil (a mason) in the summer. All his money goes to his ski stuff." Sylvia Gray, now a seasoned veteran ski parent, knows what it takes from the parents. "It's a 100-percent total commitment of time and financial support -- believe me," she said. "You can't support a skier 75 percent and expect him to make it. It won't work."

Other achievers

Besides the homegrown pack of young racers, there are other local skiers/snowboarders who qualified for inter-state competition. Although there are not as many of them (yet) as in alpine racing, they are worthy of mention. (There are no doubt others we have not heard about.)

High-schoolers Forest Fyrberg of Andover and Sarah Paul of West Bethel qualified for the Maine Junior Olympic Team in cross-country skiing. They were part of a Maine team that won the overall championship cup at Sugarloaf recently, beating Massachusetts, Vermont and New Hampshire.

Another group of local high school students, Ian Paquette, Peter Libby and Ramsey Harrington, qualified for national snowboarding competition in California. Meanwhile, Gould Academy and SAD44 are collaborating to bring more young cross-country skiers and snowboarders into the sports at earlier ages.

New residents Mark Paaso, Brian Broderick and Kevin Hanian, all seventh-graders, were selected for the freestyle skiing Eastern Qualifiers Championship (B level). Hanian won the aerial championship competition, held this past weekend in New Hampshire.

Mark Paaso's ninth-grade sister, Jackie, also recently won the eastern freestyle aerial championship among all age groups.

Another newcomer to the area is alpine skier and sixth-grader Spencer Cowin. Like Billy Murphy, he qualified for the Future Stars camp.

Woodstock

rience, experience the board members have worked hard to acquire." The town's Board of Selectmen has unanimously recommended that the article eliminating the limits be passed, he said.

Revaluation

The board is also unanimous in recommending that voters authorize a revaluation of land and buildings in town, and agree to pay for relocating most stump dump operations to the G&W transfer station. The last town-wide revaluation was in 1983.

If voters approve the revaluation, Maxfield said, new value added would serve to hold down any tax increase.

As for individual taxpayers, he said, revaluations typically result in "some going up, some going down, and about a third remaining unchanged."

The proposed revaluation would take place over two years and would cost $45,000, with the selectmen recommending that the money be taken from the town's tree growth account.

Other matters

Voters will also be asked to fund a change that would allow them to dispose of brown goods, white goods, and tires at the G&W transfer station on Route 26 in Locke Mills.

Residents of Woodstock and Greenwood share both the transfer station and a stump dump located in Greenwood City.

If voters in the both towns agree to fund the change, the only stump dump operation left in Greenwood City would be the burn pile.

The work involved includes preparing the site to accept the containers and putting in an access road, according to Marie Bartlett, first selectmen in Greenwood.

Officials estimate that Woodstock's share of the cost would be approximately $20,000.

Maxwell said little opposition is expected to the change, since the Locke Mills site is easier to reach for most residents, and it would open more hours than the Greenwood City site.

Little budget change

The FY-1997 municipal budget proposed by the selectmen is $580,655.

When school and county taxes (estimated at $540,000 and $39,000 respectively) are added to this year's total, the projected town budget would be $1,159,655, of which $824,284 would be raised from taxes.

This compares to figures of $1,044,590 and $806,708 respectively for last year.

The largest new purchase being proposed by the selectmen is $25,000 for a new 1997 Ford 350 one-ton truck, cab and chassis only. The selectmen are recommending that the money be taken from the Highway Truck Reserve Account.

If voters go along with all the selectmen's recommendations, Maxfield said, there should be only a very minor change in the town's mill rate -- currently $18.82 for every thousand dollars of assessed valuation.

This year's meeting will be held Monday evening, March 24, in the auditorium of the Woodstock Elementary School. The meeting will begin at 7 p.m.

THIS WEEK AT THE Moses Mason House

All members and friends of the Bethel Historical Society are reminded that the next monthly meeting has been re-scheduled for Thursday, March 20, in the meeting room of the Dr. Moses Mason House, beginning at 7:30 p.m. This will be another Oral History Night at the society, with veterans of the Korean War present to share their memories. Anyone interested is cordially invited to attend. All Korean War veterans who wish to come and share their experiences with those attending are especially welcome. Volunteers are also needed to serve on the panel at the April 3 monthly meeting of the society, which will also be another oral history evening. In this case, the meeting will honor the memory of Frank Edward Hanscom, who became headmaster of Gould Academy 100 years ago this year. Anyone who attended Gould during the Hanscom era is invited to come and share memories. Please call the society office at 824-2908 for further information.

collector, has also been filling the role of administrative assistant - without pay - for about five years. This year, she will do the job for $2,500 if townspeople approve the proposed salary.

Other town officers' pay will stay the same.

All the incumbent town officials are expected to run again for their positions, Corriveau said.

The school budget is proposed at $188,155, and the town's share of the proposed Region #9 vocational budget is $18,350.

About $15,000 in excise tax revenues can be applied to reduce the tax commitment this year, compared to what has usually been $6,000 in the past, according to Corriveau.

In earlier years, the balance of the excise funds have gone to reducing other accounts, but selectmen don't believe that is needed this year, Corriveau said.

Applying the excise money should help to keep the tax rate steady, she said.

the refuge, such as wake speeds on the Cambridge River.

"We didn't have that before," he said.

But there was little other vocal opposition to the purchase or its possible implications. The vote to approve was 16-9.

An article to appropriate $4,368 for payments on the town's bucket-loader drew a brief, heated debate between selectmen Richard LeComte and Clayton Thompson.

Last year, LeComte challenged Thompson's signing -- without any other selectmen -- of a $16,000 loan for the loader. The purchase had been approved at the 1995 Town Meeting.

Thompson produced a letter from the town's lawyers that said the Town Meeting vote was sufficient authority for the loan, with no further votes of the townspeople or selectmen needed.

LeComte was unhappy that Thompson had not first presented the letter at a selectmen's meeting.

"I was never informed of this," he said.

But townspeople apparently wanted to get on with the purchase of the loader, in spite of the questions regarding financing.

Anderson suggested they simply vote to pay the money owed, so the town would eventually own the loader. The vote followed, with 16 in favor and none opposed.

Voters also approved raising $3,500 for legal fees. The town has spent $11,000 on such fees since 1995, according to LeComte.

Townspeople also decided to return to an earlier practice of having selectmen appoint the road commissioner.

The office was changed to an elected position last year, but LeComte argued the selectmen should have control over the commissioner and be able to dismiss him if needed.

LeComte said Friday that Roger Lavalley has been appointed to the position, replacing Mike Lewitt, who was elected last year.

Voters also approved $1,000 for maintenance of the municipal building, which needs painting, among other things.

In municipal elections, Larry Nelson was elected to the selectman's seat previously held by Michael Grondin. Walter Stanczyk was elected town clerk, tax collector and treasurer, replacing Jerry Geiling. Sue Nelson was elected to the school director's seat to which she had earlier been appointed.

LeComte said later a special Town Meeting may be scheduled soon to discuss purchasing a computer to keep town records. He said Stanczyk is familiar with computer operation, and would be able to keep the records.

The school budget, in the amount of $55,017, was approved, as was the Region #9 vocational budget. Upton's share is $860.

Bethel

by Phyllis Dock

Maureen Swain recently visited her daughter, Kathy Ayott, in Concord, N.H. During Maureen's visit, the family enjoyed a birthday celebration for her grandson Blaine's birthday. Seventy-six area Senior Citizen Club members held their special March meeting at the American Legion Jackson-Silver Post 68 in Locke Mills. Following the meeting Dr. Hersey entertained them with beautiful slides taken in Alaska. Last week, Jim and Bea Brown went to South Paris, where their daughter-in-law Bernice Brown of Virginia was visiting her mother, Betty Farrar.

Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Gagnon and daughter Nicole were guests of Irene Russell Sunday and took her out to lunch at Pat's Pizza. Vada Glover visited Ruth Cummings Tuesday. They went to Rebel Recreation Restaurant in West Bethel for lunch and then to visit Roger and Amy Hanscom at Rumford Community Home. They found them doing quite well, and they played cribbage as usual. On Friday, March 14, 47 Bethel Senior Citizens traveled by MaineLine Bus to Portland, where they enjoyed the annual Flower Show. The trip was organized by Jane Hosterman and Helen Saunders. Barbara Bryant and her daughter Susan and Walter and Henrietta Taft met the group for lunch at the Old Country Buffet at the Maine Mall. The following day (Saturday), 42 area residents, including senior citizens, younger adults, and a couple children, boarded the same MaineLine bus for a day-long trip to Boston, where they enjoyed the annual Flower Show at the Bayside Exposition Center and a visit to Quincy Market. Vicky Myers and Lola Crockett handled arrangements for Saturday's trip. Gretchen Dock and Ann Robbins of Boston joined the Norman Docks at the show and a delicious dinner at Durgin Park. Irene Russell, Eva Lane and Helena Bartlett were among those who attended the Bethel Senior Citizen Club dinner at the Legion Hall in Locke Mills recently. Doris Fraser and Irene Russell went to Ledgeview Nursing Home on Saturday and visited with Marguerite Foster, Celia Gorman and Barbara Wheeler. Cathy Newell of Locke Mills took Ruth Cummings to the Far East restaurant in Mexico on Saturday, then they went shopping and they also visited with Amy and Roger Hanscom at the Rumford Community Home. Amy and Roger were doing better than they had been the past few weeks. Irene Russell and Doris Fraser went to the flower show in Portland on the Senior Citizen bus Friday. Florence Merrill and Shirley Lowell were among those to take the bus to Boston Saturday to the flower show.

West Bethel

by Karen Paul

How many readers know what or rather who a reeve was? What function did he perform in a small town about 1830? I happened to visit Old Sturbridge Village recently and saw a structure there which relates to the job of a reeve. When I asked the shoemaker, he didn't know; in fact, he said there was no such person. Further along, when I arrived at the Freeman Farm, I asked the farmer there. He knew, of course, what the elected position was called and what the job description of a reeve entailed. Do you? Sarah Paul competed at the JII Cross-Country Ski Festival this past weekend. Sarah ranks as one of Maine's 20 best women skiers in the 14-15-year-old division. Three other New England states competed with Maine at Sugarloaf in Kingfield. Vermont's six-year winning streak ended when Maine defeated them this weekend, shocking the Maine participants as Maine had placed last in 1996. Sarah placed 35th in a group of 79 young women in the classical; in the skate competition she placed 40th. Sarah's sprint placed her in 61st position and finally her relay team (four persons) placed 21st out of 40 teams.

It's encouraging to hear from readers that my column entertains them and hopefully teaches, too. I have been rewarded with more stories about folks and events I've mentioned here. Becky Shaw called to share her "Spring Cleaning" tips which I appreciated. She suggests you open up windows in the spring and head outside for the summer. Then, when the weather cools sufficiently, you can go back into the house and think about cleaning. The Hale-Bopp comet was clearly visible in the north-northwest sky on the eve of March 13. We were on Route 10 headed north in Goshen, N.H., when we spotted it in the darkened winter sky. Astronomers say it will be most visible just after sunset in late March/early April. March 23 is full moon with partial lunar eclipse. This should be a spectacular night for comet watching. Answer to the question of what a reeve does -- he catches animals found roaming around free and takes them to the pound to hold them until their owners can come and get them. There is a great example of a pound on the left side of the road approaching the center of Greenwood City from the north.

Greenwood City

recently, it was sunset time, I saw one of the wonders of nature. I paused to observe the beauty of the western sky. The sun's rays spread wide in a fan-like picture of soft colors. Above were the tiny clouds forming curls and fluff as they reached down toward the horizon. Between two broken clouds appeared a yellow light. Almost as quickly as it came, all faded away into the veil of night.

Different seasons bring a different work of art on this western canvas. With the breeze as a brush, color and beauty change rapidly. Look now, for in a moment it may vanish! Some of our most beautiful pictures are of sunsets.

I think sunsets never end for they remain in mind's eye, as long as one admires nature.

During spring, sunset tints are more often bright yellow or light pink. But as time passes and the dust begins to gather they acquire a reddish hue.

Those we recall most often are the summer glows, which we associate with our pleasant surroundings, lawns under a haze of delicate pastel shadings, masses of roses, shadows of the mountains on blue gleaming ridges across the valley, calls of the evening birds, the afterglow of golden sheen upon the water, forests stretching to the humped profiles of Edgecomb and Long and the shift of rainbow colors to darkness.

Winter, too, has its glory, so watch for the apple greens, scarlets, and gold, mauves and rose through your windows with no leaves to obscure the colors.

When these scarlet strips line the blue of the sky and eventide of the year approaches; the twinkling stars shine out, winds are blustery, winter comes but we accept it and are ready.

Most families have been busy removing snow from the big storm. We are now ready for the next one.

On Monday, I was in Lewiston to have a tooth removed. It was not a pleasant experience but a necessity. Sally Holt's mother was with us at the farm on Sunday. We enjoyed her visit.

Mr. and Mrs. Milton Inman were in Bethel one evening to visit their son Gary and family.

There was a snowmobile accident on Patch Mountain this week.

The APT will hold a meeting with parents on Tuesday, March 25, at 6 p.m. at the school regarding upcoming summer activities. Please try to attend if your child is interested in participating in the softball/baseball/T-ball programs.

Congratulations to Sue Swasey, the winner of the TV Tray raffle sponsored by the APT. The table tray set was made, decorated and donated by Bob and Laurie Brown.

Seems that many have been hospitalized recently. Get well wishes to Glennice Roberts, a Rumford Community Hospital patient. A few have returned home following hospitalization. Brian Mills underwent heart surgery at MMC last week. Buster Falkenham underwent testing at the Portland hospital, too. Wishes for a speedy recovery to Donald French, who was a surgical patient at Stephens Memorial Hospital in Norway, and to Agnes Porter and Marcie Shroeder, who were both recently released from the hospital. Get well wishes to Peter Hurd, who suffered a back injury; also to Dottie Lang, who has been under the weather lately.

Sympathy is extended to the David Chasson family for the death of his mother, Mrs. Jesse (MacPherson) Chasson. She was born in Mexico in 1911 and later made her home in Cambridge, Mass.

Heath Poland is home for a visit with his parents, Dennis and Debbie Poland. Heath attends college in Illinois.

JoAnna Poland has returned home to Mobile, Ala., after visiting family in West Paris for a while.

Kellie Record, Jessie Hart and Jenny Record visited Sarah Hart at SMTC in Portland this past weekend. They spent Saturday night, as the weather turned bad after they got there.

Those celebrating birthdays in March are: Polly Croteau, Derek Leonard, Mary Ellen Hadley, Jim Miclon, Harold Wilbur, Michael Scot Moore, Patty Thurlow, Patty Poland, Leslie Thurlow, Mark Thurlow, Marcia Morse and Darcy Robertson. Also, Jessie Hart celebrated her birthday this month and turned 16 years old. March anniversaries being celebrated are Roger and Marie Wilday, Phelps and Joan Poland and Richard and Andrea Wing.

A lot of people in this area have been sick with colds and flu. Always happens this time of year.

Larry Billings, curator, Woodstock Historical Society, reports that at the March meeting President Helvi Cary presented a quiz on Woodstock. Robert Billings started a fundraising project and Olive Risko gave a Research Committee report. The curator will present the April program.

Larry Billings has given the museum a comic book guide, perhaps some young people will find it useful; Shakespeare's play "King Lear," "American Poetry," a book on Peter the Great, an art book, a bench, a large abstract painting, an antique mirror, two Chelseaware plates to complete set, and four classics.

The Woodstock Historical Society does remarkably well with the limited resources it has. It maintains a fine museum and offers the public good programs and resources.

Claribel Poland called Evelyn Dunn in California this week, where Jim and Evelyn are visiting their daughter Patrice for the rest of the winter.

Bryant Pond hour on Channel 14 T.V. is 3:30 p.m. Wednesday and 7 p.m. Thursday. Good News Club will meet Wednesday afternoon at Caroline Roberts' and Thursday from 6 to 7:15 p.m. at the Church Annex. Good Friday Service will be held at the Bryant Pond Baptist Church, West Bethel.

The Woodstock Historical Society reflects the character of the town it serves. We hope you enjoy the society's antique exhibits and its Woodstock memorabilia. They tell the story of our area years ago.

Curator Larry Billings has given two Chelseaware dinner plates to complete a set given to the museum some time ago. He has also given several books and poetry, a bench, a painting, an antique mirror and a print.

The society has many fascinating old photos of Woodstock and the area. It is an important presence in our area. The curator has donated many exhibits over the years and hopes the public enjoys and benefits from them.

At the March meeting, Helvi Cary, presented a quiz on the Town of Woodstock. The Finance Committee started a fundraising project. Olive Risko gave a Research Committee report. Refreshments were provided by Ruth Cox and Elaine Roberts. Larry Billings will provide the April program.

East Stoneham

by Eleanor Nelson

The Stoneham Planning Board met Tuesday evening at the Fire Station with six people present. They acted upon a few applications and permits.

The Stoneham annual Town Meeting was held Saturday with about 40 or more people attending. John Woodbury was again the moderator and kept things rolling right along. Selectman Jim Tindler took special time to explain many questions about the articles and expenses of the town.

At 12:30 p.m. a brief lunch time was declared and the ladies of the Stoneham Volunteer Firemen's Auxiliary served an excellent array of goodies to those present, which consisted of hot chili, steamed hot dogs, chips, cake, cookies, bars, donuts and pies with hot coffee.

The meeting resumed at 1:15 p.m. and was finished about 2:30 p.m. Sixty-five articles were acted upon. Lois Niemi was elected to the Board of Selectmen to replace Jim Tindler, who resigned due to other commitments.

Ed Spooner will represent the

The East Stoneham Church members met on Thursday, March 13, at the East Stoneham Church vestry.

On March 22, from 5 to 7 p.m., a benefit supper for Nellie Halstat is planned to be at the Waterford Memorial School, with beans, casseroles, stews, homemade bread, pies, cakes, beverages, etc. (adults, $5; under 12, $2.50).

Wednesday, March 26, is the next D.U.V. Hannah F. Richardson Tent 19 meeting at 7 p.m. at the home of Eleanor Smith in Waterford. I believe I put the 23rd in the last news item, which is wrong. Members please take notice.

Hope everyone had a happy St. Patrick's Day. Did you have corned beef and cabbage? We did. That was Gladys Kilgore's favorite holiday. She must have been Irish.

Carolyn Heino visited her aunt, Josephine McAllister, at Ledgeview Nursing Home in West Paris on Sunday and found her to be getting along quite nicely.

Can you believe that the first day of spring is this Friday?

I have been trying for over a week to get rid of a cold, cough and wicked sore throat. It's finally getting a bit better with the help of the doctor.

Upton

by Amy Geitling
Happy day before spring!
A moose greeted me from on top of a snowbank near Errol, N.H., one morning. It was a natural reaction to shout "Good morning to you." A true sign of spring.

Two tourists were here because they had never seen a moose before. I told them "right place, wrong time. Come back in about six weeks."

Ray Bernier is back from Stephens Memorial Hospital for a hernia operation. Ray had all the nurses in "stitches." Mardy, his friend from Backstreet, said, "He's still full of baloney."

Results of the Upton Town Meeting were: Wendy Hanscom, moderator; Walter Stanczyk, town clerk; treasurer, tax collector; Larry Nelson, selectman; Sue Nelson, school board. Article 36, to sell 200 acres of their school trust land to the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, passed. The lots will become part of the Lake Umbagog National Wildlife Refuge. The town also passed to appoint a road commissioner. This will be done at the next selectmen's meeting. Congratulations to those above!

North Newry

by Gil Sealey

Call to Worship was at Owen and Sue Wight's residence Sunday, March 9, at 9 a.m. with Pastor Rodney Hanscom and daughter Nancy at the organ. The Message of the Day was "The Key to Heaven." There were 11 in attendance. Coffee, etc., was enjoyed after the service. Members of the church want to thank every one who furnished food for Freda's memorial.

The Newry Community Church will be open for services on Palm Sunday at 9 a.m.

About 20 people showed up for the potluck supper at the Grange Hall before the regular yearly Town Meeting started at 7 p.m. It was an enjoyable get-together and gave us a chance to hobnob with friends and enjoy delicious food. The meeting went along at a good pace, and every article passed without much opposition. The Town Committee saw to it that everything went along smoothly.

Only Karlene Bachelder and Gil Sealey were at the Oxford Lanes in Rumford one day last week. Beal Lowell was with the Bethel Senior Citizens Club for a feast at the American Legion Hall in Locke Mills. On the overall scores Karlene was high on both the singles and triples. She had four spares.

"Correction" -- Mr. Charles Seashore was not at the Bachelders with his wife eating cake at Karlene's birthday -- sorry about that.

Sylvia and Bill Wight, Bob Lowell and little Vickie, Owen Wight, Nancy and Eddie Bennett, Ed Powers and Sylvia Harrington, members of the Sno-Mobile club were at the "Warming Hut" Saturday, March 1, for a cook-in-and-cook-out. The day was overcast and threatening rain? snow? But that didn't stop them from enjoying some macaroni and cheese, fried onions, hot dogs, cake, brownies, coffee, tea and cocoa. There was a fire indoors and one outdoors, so they were warm at the hut. But that's not the end, they plan to have many more cookouts in the future.

The Sno-Mobile Club met at the Town Building on March 11 for their monthly get-together, that was postponed from March 4. It has 59 members now. President Owen Wight opened the meeting and treasurer Bob Lowell brought the finances up to date and reported on the oyster stew take-in. Sylvia Wight took notes during the evening in the absence of the secretary, Sylvia Harrington, who probably didn't know about the postponement. Trail master Leon Dunn reported on more bridges to be built and repaired, etc., and more trails. Next meeting will be at the Town Building on April 1 at 7 p.m. The club hopes to have the May meeting and potluck supper at the Warming Hut.

GREENWOOD HISTORICAL

The Greenwood Historical Society held its regular meeting Wednesday evening, March 5, at their building with 17 present.

It was a short meeting. Mr. and Mrs. Robert Grover of Sumner were there and demonstrated how to bind books the old-fashioned way using tape, needle and thread. They are in the process of binding the books of "Laos" which they wrote after their trip to Laos.

Refreshments were served by Edith Morey and Virginia Keniston. Joan Kimball will furnish refreshments for the next meeting on April 2. It is not known at this time what the program will be.

Member Hugh Swan, who has been very ill at the Maine Medical Center, has returned home.

Life member Gilbert Woodsum passed away at Melrose, Mass., on Feb. 14 at the age of 99.

Correction

Star Lunch. Mary Lou Berry writes: "Lorraine Mills' column of March 12 with information on the Star Lunch. She has a remarkable memory, all is correct up to where Elsie Robertson York sold to Sadie Allen Brooks.

"Sadie was my aunt and many happy hours I spent in that restaurant, and the name was changed to the Pine Tree Diner (or Lunch).

"Aunt Sadie lived then over the restaurant and the Autor family lived there, too. Their daughter Jacquelyn went to school with me -- maybe two years at Gould.

"I hope this helps complete the story for Ruth Cummings."

Agnes Gray School

by Marta Clements

The third quarter is more than half over. Ranks will close on April 4, and parent conferences will be held on April 14. Lots of book reports, projects, and other work will need to be done before the 4th.

Thursday, March 20, will be an early release day. Children will have lunch at school and be dismissed by 12:30 p.m. Friday, March 21, is a teacher workshop day and a no-school day for students. We will work with our grade-level teacher throughout the district to address ways to improve what we are currently doing in mathematics.

We are planning our third "Super Event" of the year. We will be taking the entire student body to the Casablanca to see "The Empire Strikes Back" on Thursday, March 27. Super events tie in with our behavior system, and students have to earn the right to attend. Everyone is trying to be on his or her best behavior.

Different classrooms are celebrating St. Patrick's Day in different ways. There are neat bulletin boards designed by children in several rooms. We have added Irish songs at our opening exercises. The first-graders are writing stories about leprechauns. The color green is seen everywhere. On the 17th, the third-graders joined with their pen pals from Hebron and went to Norlands for the day. This trip is always an exciting day of 1800s adventures.

The fifth-graders have earned enough money to pay for their trip to Boston, which is coming up in May. They are already learning about the importance of Boston during the forming of our country. Student teacher, John Wescott, showed the two classes slides of a rafting trip in the Grand Canyon. This will prepare us for the Omni Theater presentation on the Grand Canyon at the Museum of Science. We will soon be learning about Old Ironsides in preparation for our tour of this famous ship.

At this writing the sixth-graders are still in the process of elimination searching for a representative and a runner-up for the district spelling bee to be held on St. Patrick's Day.

Parents, there is still a lot going on both academically and for fun. Watch for your newsletters, so you will be informed. Give us a call if you have any questions.

BETH HOWE NAMED TO MCDONALD'S ALL-STARS

Beth Howe of Telstar High School has been named to the Maine McDonald's Academic All-Star Basketball Team.

Howe, a senior, was one of 10 girls from schools in western Class C to receive the honor.

She will attend a banquet honoring the team Friday at Husson College.

Carroll Higgins, athletic director at Telstar, said he believes Howe is the first girl from the school to be named to the team.

FRIENDS OF TMS

There will be a Friends of TMS meeting on Wednesday, March 19, at 6:30 p.m. At 7 p.m. there will be a performance by the Telstar Middle School Drama Club in the auditorium. The short plays are directed by Mrs. Elaine Hutchins.

On Saturday, March 29, from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m., there will be a bottle drive at the bus garage. All monies raised will go toward display cases for the Middle School. Volunteers are needed. Call the middle school at 824-3596 for information.

Orders are also being taken for Telstar Rebels T-shirts/sweatshirts at the Middle School. T-shirts are $10 and sweatshirts are $16. To order, call the middle school.

Drinking Water System Failed To Monitor For Inorganic Contaminates

The Andover Water District reports that it has failed to monitor for the Inorganic Contaminates: Nickel, Antimony, Beryllium, Sulfate, Cyanide and Thallium for the compliance period of January 1, 1995 to December 1995, as required by State and Federal statutes. Samples are collected at a users tap and sent to a certified laboratory for testing. In this case the monitoring was not done as required. State and Federal regulations require us to notify our users of this fact.

Questions Should Be Directed To: Andover Water District at 392-1036

Drinking Water Fails To Meet Treatment Standards

The Andover Water District has been notified by the Drinking Water Program, Maine Department of Human Services, that the drinking water was not adequately treated for the time period of July 1, 1993 through April 1, 1997.

The USEPA sets drinking water standards and has determined that the presence of microbial contaminants are a health concern at certain levels of exposure. If water is inadequately treated microbial contaminants in the water may cause disease. Disease symptoms may include diarrhea, cramps, nausea, and possibly jaundice, as well as headache and fatigue. These symptoms, however, are not just associated with disease causing organisms in drinking water, but also caused by a number of factors other than your drinking water. The USEPA has set an enforceable standard for treating drinking water to reduce the risk of these adverse health effects. Treatments such as filtration and disinfection of the water removes or destroys microbiological contaminants. Drinking water which is treated to meet USEPA requirements is associated with little to none of this risk and should be considered safe.

Questions Should Be Directed To: Andover Water District at 392-1036

Drinking Water System Failed To Monitor For Coliform Bacteria

The Andover Water District has been notified by the Drinking Water Program, Maine Department of Human Services that, Total Coliform Bacteria were detected in a water sample collected during the July 1996, compliance period. We failed to collect the required number of follow up Coliform Bacteria samples.

The United States Environmental Protection Agency (USEPA) sets drinking water standards and requires a minimal amount of testing for Coliform Bacteria. Coliform Bacteria are common in the environment and generally are not harmful themselves, the result of water treatment problem, water source protection, or water distribution system problem. These tests indicate that water may be contaminated with other organisms that can cause disease.

Samples are collected from a users tap, sent to a certified laboratory for testing. In this case the minimum number of required recheck samples was not collected.

Questions Regarding This Notice Should Be Directed To: Andover Water District at 392-1036

During the Korean Conflict, Mr. Garey served in the U.S. Army. He worked for many years at Newton-Tebbets Mill and Hanover Dowel Company of Bethel for 30 years, before retiring due to ill health.

THOUGHTS FROM THE Pastor's Study

The Bethel Area Clergy Association, with the help of pastors of surrounding churches, brings you these meditations. Not based on any set theme, they will be individual for each pastor. It is hoped you will find in these words comfort and hope for your daily life.

Once again, we are in the calendar of the Christian faith, which is called by the secular name "Easter," which was foreign goddess, other times translated "Passover" in other translations of the New Testament. It is the day that the Christian Church celebrates the resurrection of Christ our Savior from the grave. This is in spite of, I might add, all the erroneous and misleading fanfare of the secular world with Easter bunnies, eggs, lilies and hot-cross buns, which are sadly misleading and irrelevant.

The Resurrection is singular to the Christian faith, because it seems that all the other religions fail to offer any such hope of future resurrection of the human body. Thus we believe it confirms the validity of the Christian faith and adds assurance to a wonderful future hope for all who put their faith in Christ as Saviour.

In a sense, to call Christianity a "religion" is a misnomer. Interestingly, the word "religion" is found only five times in the New Testament. Religion speaks of what men have done for God, whereas Christianity tells us of what God has done for man.

As I am sure everyone knows, the death of our Saviour, the Lord Jesus Christ, preceded the Resurrection, as the New Testament indicates, "Christ died for our sins according to the scripture; and that He was buried, and that He rose again the third day according to the scriptures." (1 Cor. 15:3-4) This incident is the basic premise of the Christian gospel.

All of this is why our Lord could say to Martha at the grave of her brother Lazarus, "I am the resurrection and the life; he that believeth in me though he were dead, yet shall he live, and whosoever liveth and believeth in me shall never die. Believeth thou this?" John 11:25-26. Upon the basis of this promise, that Christ died to pay the penalty for the sins of all who would in repentance and person faith receive new life now and a new body through resurrection when Christ returns in power and great glory.

This is what Easter is all about, the bulwark of our Christian faith. I invite your prayerful consideration of this marvelous truth.

Rev. Roland M. Lord
Assistant Pastor,
Bryant Pond Baptist Church

In Loving Memory of Alice Crockett on her Birthday 3/20/11 to 4/9/96

There is a bridge of memories from here to heaven above that keeps you close to us, it's called a bridge of love. As time goes by without you and days turn into a year they hold a million memories and a thousand silent tears. To us you were special, what more is there to say except to wish with all our hearts you were here today. If love could have saved you, you never would have died.

We Love You & Miss You
